Republicans in Texas Indulge in a Grand

Swept Away by the Fleed.
LOUISVILLE, Feb. 24.—A two-story frame house on Hanceck street occupied by a negro named John Legre, was awept off its foundation to-day. The family were sitting down to breakfast and had no warning of the flood until it struck the house with a crash and bursting the door open flooded the room. Everything in the room was apact, the stove thrown over and a lamp dropped on the bed setting it on fro. The family scrambled up stairs and stood at the whole family scrambled up stairs and stood at the door watching the water creep up inch by inch whill it louched the floor beneath their feot. They were finally rescued. The water struck the Kentucky rolling mill like a formado, sweeping everything off the ground floor and effectually ducking several of the workmen. For about two squares dast of where the disaster occurred, the ground is very low, sild water flooded it completely, immersing bookes in many instances up to the second story. The seen is one of utmost desolation, and the suffering is many poor persons are great. The slough at the ent-off remains unchanged says where water has such in several places, leaving indeltile traces basind. At Louisville the river has been going down an inch an hour since Wedniesday noon. All tributaries of the Onto are failing. Swept Away by the Flood.

Washington, Feb. 24.—As far as can be gathered from the ber instructed sources the following is the explanation of the appointment of ex-Senator Sarigent to the German mission: The president is an old and attached friend of Mr. Sargent, and has a firm butlet in his ability, experience and purity of character. His mind was made up to call him to the interior department list Northber, but some compilerations growing out of eastern pressure and the earnest request of the lows delegation for kirkwood's retention induced blue to delay Sargent's appointment. In the meabiline it became known that he intended to call Sargent to the interior department, and there was an slarm raised among Indian thiever and hand grabbers deet his appointment would effectively block their little games. Bargont was approached by persons secretly representing these interests, but was found to be characteristically unwilling to give any assurance as to his furture corress. On this a fusione commenced in some of the eastern papers, most of which doubtless Special Constable Epptinger was detailed to get the caild, and after doing his best to get it from the mother was compelled to leave without it. He says that to mendiately upon going to the mother's readence, extract Perst and Clay streets, and stating his mission, she told the child to run away, that the man wanted to each her. The child ran down Flest street into a barber's shop, where Eppinger followed, locking the door after him to prevent the mother eintering. But the propertor unfastened the door and interfered with Eppinger so as to allow Mrs. Prout to get in the door. She picked up her child and escaped through the back entrance, which is the last Constable Eppinger saw of either. Eppinger says he don't want any more work of that find but that he will get even with the barber.

Special dispatch to the Chreago Tribune.

Photherice, R. L., Feb. 10.—The interminable Sprague properly liftgolton seems to be approaching at ebd. A bill was reported from the corporation committee in the state legislature to-day creating a corporation by the name of the Union Liquidation Company. This company is the syndicate of creditors who have agreed to give $1,000,000 for all the property of the A. & W. Sprague Manutacturing Company, for the purpose of setting up the estate, paying off the small creditors who have not entered into the bargain, and eventually to dispose of the property and divide the pronts, if there are any, among themselves. Gen. B. F. Botier, representing other capitalists, some weeks ago offered the creditors the anne terms, but they refused to accent. If the Butter offer had been accepted the Spragues would have had an opportunity to rebuild their shattened for tates; but, under the present arrangements, the Spragues will not accept what they have invested in the Quidneck Company. The offer of the syndicate comes up before the supreme court to morrow for indorsement and sanction. It the court approve and the Spragues' counse, interpose an objection the creditors will at last have a chance to scente a portion of their long-deferred chains. Gen. Butter, Spragues' counse, is very quiet at present, but it is expected be will field any other Turstee Chaffee or the syndicate any give.

From the Chicago Tribuke, During the recent annual meeting of the American Agricultural Association in New York city, can Agricultural Association in New York city, nearly every delegate present accepted an invitation of Mr. Theodore A. Havemeyer, the great Brooklyn sagar retier, to visit his farm at Mahwah, N. J. A special train on the Eric road carried the party to the farm, which in all its appointments is one of the finest in the cast. What leads additional interest to the place is, that it is exclusively a stock farm, something musual in that section of the country. There are 538 acres in the form. As yet Mr. Havemey's Agricultural contents of the country of the cou meyer's venture is only an experiment. He was sat-isfied that the fatheres of former stock-farmers reissed that the failures of former stock-formers resulted from a lack of capital and ignorance of their work, and he has determined that nether or these reasons shall bring disaster upon his experiment. The farm residence, barns, and other buildings, are all of a rubstantial and elegant character. In the spacious stables are over forly horses, many of them being high-laced stainals. In the cattle stable Mr. Havemeyer has about 130 pure-bred registered Jerseys, who are cared for upon a regal scale of magnificence. Mr. Havemeyer is a strong advocate of the practice of preserving green fodder for winter use, and has a very large silo on his place where English feed is prepared. The product of his herd is about 600 penus of prince butter every month. There are also about 150 Southdown sheep of the pdreet strains, and all his stock is in the very best condition.

Parties interested in timber conture will observe the following definition as to the kind of trees which come under the requirements of the law from N. C. McFarland of the general land office at Washington. The character of the trees should be such as are recognized in the neighborhood as of value for timber, or for commercial jumposes, or for firewood and domestic use. The cummeration of species, on page 27 of the general circular of October 1, 1891, is only intended as a general guide, and is not to be considered to exclude any trees failing within the foregoing characterization.

Walla Walla Union: Last year Wall Thomas experimented with 155 acres of corn on the bench land above the Mill creek button. The corn planted was the white dent warety. It matured fully and gave an average yield of 22% bushels to the acre. The was so well satisfied with the experiment that he will devote 160 acres to corn. He thinks there is more money in corn than there is in wheat at sixty cants. The corn fodder has kept his stock during the winter, and the corn he used to fatten 165 head of fine hogs. He has between 200 and 300 head of hogs which he will ratten next fall our corn and convert fate basen.

The apposition to the Sanday law lately passed by the territorial legislature continues in many localities. The Spokene Coronicle of recent date says: Satisfied from all that has been raid and from all that has been raid and from all that has occurred here since the Sanday law went into operation that it is neither behevicial in a metal or business sense, it is well enough to say it. In the first place the law, as a law, is worth nothing; and, second, its enforcement in a place like Spokene Falls is slumply not only hapossible, that if possible out of reason. It is only fair to say that our merchants have never opened their stores for a general business on sunday, but have kept themogen during the foretoom to accommedate those who not drinkers, not coming to town on that day for a "blow-out" had to make purchases, thought it no harm, especially as the saved them one day in the working week. Indeed, had; they come at any other time nine chances in ten their places would have been declared vacant. The closing of our places of business on Sunday foreneous will cost this city $55,000 a year. Since the law went into effect there is not a particle of evidence that the morals of the phoe-always ex-ceptionally good-have improved any.

From the New York World, 10th 1880. The house of Mr. Thomas McElrath, Twenty-five Wrst One Hundred and Twenty toucht street, was handsomely described hast inlaht in house of Mr. and Mrs. McElrath's golden-weathing. Fifty years ago Mr. McElrath and Miss Price were married by

In conversation with a reporter of the World Mr. McErrath recalled the appearance of the city as it was when he got married, and spoke with evident satisfaction of the many magnellous changes which the past half century has witnessed. Speaking of himself he said: Yes, for a long time I was publisher of the Tribane. Mr. Greeley started the paper on the 10th of April, 1841. In July of that year I loaned him 5560, but refused to become his partner. In August, however, we had none conversation on the subject and I concelled to join him. Before doing so I stipulated that he should discontinge publishing the New Farker and start the Weekly Tritume in its place. The weekly was begun in September. The day after my name appeared in the Japer, Dr. Benj. Deske, Dr. Wm. Turner, Charles Hiddler, Mr. Groen, Jas. Kelley and some half a dezen others, in its place. The weekly was begin in September. The day after my name appeared in the Japer, Dr. Benj. Drake, Dr. Wm. Turner, Charles Hiddler, Mr. Groen, Jss. Kelley and some haif a dozen others, members of the white organization and promisent supporters of Mr. Clay, came into the office and subscribed for the paper. I was known to be an adherent of Mr. Clay, and white Mr. Greekey was a great friend of Gor. Harrison he was not supposed to be favorable to Mr. Clay. These gentlemen did the paper a great doal of good. I was sent to the legislators in 1828 by the Clay element. In those days the city elected thirteen members at large. "I introduced into the Tribane the large size of type which is still used. I also had the number of sheets in a rosm changed from 480 to 500. The custom then was to publish death and marriage notices free. I charged for marriage notices and tor all besides the bare aumunement of a death. I had the advertisements set like those in the London Trass, excluding cuts and refusing to allow display type to be used. These regulations continued in force for a few years only. Advertising was a different thing in those days from what it is now. We thought a man a large selvertiser if he spent $50 a month, while a man spending $100 per month was an extraordinary customer. Our first year's receipts, from advertising were $12,000. $45,000. After that they ran rapidly up. There was a custom in those days of glving a man about two inches of space, changing his advertisement as often as he pleased and sending the paper to him for $40 per year. I never took but one advertisement as often as he pleased and sending the paper to him for $40 per year. I never took but one advertisement as often as a related the Tribuse Almanac. The cover used intil a few years ago was designed by Mr. Chapman, an arise two is since and in a great measure to its literary character, and as far as literature was concerned it was under the charge of Mr. Henry J. Raymond, although his name newer appeared. I had sample copies of Mark Lanc—Very inactive.

I did once after an editorial of Mr. Greeky's, After rewriting it I next it in active. New York, Feb. 23.—fregular weather, coupled with a holiday, has rendered the freight market rather quest the past lew days, and there has been very little doing other than shipments by regular shippers, and delivery of a few back orders by manufacturers. On the whole, the outlook for the next 60 days is not very promising, except in the matter of rates which are likely to advance owing to scarcity in supply of tonnage. Current rates are weight 20 R on, cond 88 R ton, whishy 324216 3bid, nails 35c per key, oil, es. 35c, per bid $2; canned goods, 20692256 per case, plaster and rosts $1 125 per bid.
